Lose the Tube, Best Travel Toothpaste of 2014

February 2014

Denver, Colorado- Looking forward to traveling to the Olympics, but frustrated by not being able to bring liquids? Archtek, Inc. has created a travel friendly, convenient, and green product to avoid the mess of toothpaste while traveling, called Toothpaste Tablets.

Toothpaste Tablets are not a paste, but rather contain all the benefits of toothpaste once you begin to chew the tablet, brush and then rinse. The tablet is in the shape of a mint but is packed with all the necessary items to keep your teeth clean and healthy.

With the eco-friendly bottle and TSA approved substance, you will be traveling in style. The cool mint flavor leaves your mouth fresh and clean once you Chew-Brush-Rinse. Toothpaste Tablets were voted Top Innovative Consumer Product in 2011 for the Dental Advisor Magazine and have been clinically proven to clean teeth and help prevent plaque and bacteria.

Toothpaste Tablets contain the same ingredients as the average toothpaste but have the added benefit of cranberry extract. This cranberry extract creates a slippery surface on the enamel making the formation of plaque more difficult and also acts as an antibacterial.

“Because TSA allows any quantity of toothpaste tablets as carryon luggage, they never need to be separated and placed in the dreaded zip lock bag for scanning,” states Archtek Owner Scott Jacobs.

Not only are they good for traveling, but Toothpaste Tablets decrease the microbial transmission of bacteria from the toothbrush to the toothpaste and back again. These Tablets prevent germs from recirculating, especially if you share toothpaste with others.

Archtek, Inc. produces these tablets in 60ct. bottles or individually wrapped 15ct. packages. You can purchase these online through Archtek's website www.archtekinc.com. For the kid friendly version, Archtek, produces Child Life Toothpaste Tablets which you can also find online.
